DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the application prior to the entry of the submission under 37 CFR 1.114 and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the application prior to entry under 37 CFR 1.114. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action after the filing of a request for continued examination and the submission under 37 CFR 1.114. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. Claims 1 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 01/43215. Abe et al (U.S. Pre-Grant Publication No. 2003/0113611) is taken as an English equivalent of WO '215 herein.

Abe et al. '611 teach a fuel cell comprising electrodes and a proton exchange electrolyte membrane. In [0031] and [0032], the reference discloses that the electrodes each comprise an electroconductive porous substrate, an inorganic catalyst, polyaniline doped with a polymer sulfonic acid (proton acid), and a proton exchangeable resin. The inorganic catalyst can be platinum (see [0065]). Regarding claim 10, the polymer sulfonic acid can be phenolsulfonic acid novolac resin (see [0013]). Regarding claim 1, CO may be supplied to the anode with hydrogen (see [0007]).

Abe et al. do not teach that the polymeric acid (dopant) has an ion exchange capacity of 1.6 mg/eq or more, as recited in claim 1.

However, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made because the artisan would be motivated to use a sulfonic acid polymer with a high proton conductivity in the electrodes of Abe et al. It has been held that the discovery of an optimum value of a result effective variable in a known process is ordinarily within the skill of the art. In re Boesch, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980). In this case, the use of a polymer having a high ion-exchange capacity would have more active proton sites available for the electrode oxidation-reduction reactions, as discussed in [0014] of Abe et al.

Response to Arguments

3. In the response of February 22, 2010, Applicants did not provide any substantive arguments with respect to pending claims 1 and 10; therefore those claims remain rejected for the reasons of record.
